AsarahsHS @AsarahsHS 8 Jun 2021

MHAs society has always been portrayed as grey, this isn't a recent trend:

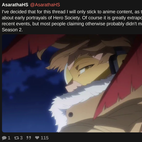
[A Thread]

Jun 8, 2021 · 1:03 AM UTC

18 248 9 1,266

AsarahsHS @AsarahsHS 8 Jun 2021

I've decided that for this thread I will only stick to anime content, as this is a canon about early portrayals of Hero Society. Of course it is greatly extrapolated on due to recent events, but most people (sanring otherwise probably didn't make it past Season 2.



1 13.3 115

AsarahsHS @AsarahsHS 9 Jun 2021

Page 1, Chapter 1 immediately tells us that all may not be as it seems. At the age of four, Deku learns the harsh truth of this society. Not all people are created equal.

1 13.6 137

AsarahsHS @AsarahsHS 9 Jun 2021

This is an unfortunate lesson to learn at such a young age, but it was one that was ever present throughout Deku's life, being bullied for not being born with a Quirk yet having the dream of being a Hero.

1 13.4 112

AsarahsHS @AsarahsHS 9 Jun 2021

A page turn introduces us to our next odd occurrence. While a villain rampages through the streets, people are continuing on with their day to day lives. Manga readers know that this concept is further expanded upon for a certain characters backstory.

2 13.4 113

AsarahsHS @AsarahsHS 9 Jun 2021

but even without that, we can infer that some form reliance has been built with the heroes. They show no fear. We'll return to this later.

EEK! GET AWAY FROM US!
WHY DO YOU KEEP ATTACKING US?
WE'RE JUST TRYING TO LIVE OUR LIVES!
WE'RE JUST TRYING TO LIVE OUR LIVES!
DEKU!
DEKU!
DEKU